NEW ERA FUND DRIVE WILL TAKE PLACE SUNDAY NEXT

Presbyterians to Raise their Budget For Year In Three Hours

EXPECT PLEDGES OF $2,000,000

This is the climatic week in the drive of the Presbyterian church to raise its $38,000,000 "Victory Fund." Every church in the Pittsburgh presbytery, which includes the Presbyterian churches of Charleroi, will be the scene of activities, and a number of meetings—in some churches they will be held every night—at which fund workers and the general membrship will be instructed and prepared for "Victory Day" Sunday next, when within three hours the $705,000, which is the presbytery's share of the great church budget this year will be raised.

Final directions to the group workers in each congregation were started through the mails on Monday, from the office of Dr. A. M. Buchanan, presbyterial new era secretary, in the Bessemer building, Pittsburgh. The unit for the drive will be four or five family groups, to one of which a leader in the campaign is assigned. Each group leader will be supplied with data showing the "giving capacity" of every member of the group.

Armed with this data and backed up by vigorous morning sermons, these group leaders will go forth at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon. The same thing will be going on at the same time all over the United States. At 5 o'clock the task will be finished and the group leaders will report to the congregational chairman, who in turn will report to presbyterial headquarters. Thus at one stroke, the whole task of the church will be financed for the year, and pastors and members will be free of the money-raising burden for the next 12 months. Besides its share of the $705,000 presbyterial budget for general denominational purposes, each congregation will finance its local budget at the same time, so that approximately $2,000,000 will be raised in the Pittsburgh presbytery on Sunday.

LAST DAY TO PAY YOUR INCOME TAX

This is the last day to pay your income tax. Deputy Collector W. R. Stevenson is at the post office building, second floor, ready to assist in making out returns, and receiving the first payment of the tax. He will be on duty until 7 o'clock, p. m., after which time all returns will have to be made to the Pittsburgh office. Those who have been delayed in making out returns can have the services of Mr. Stevenson if they call at the local federal building before 7 o'clock this evening.

MUSICAL AUXILIARY HOLD REGULAR MEETING

The Musical Auxiliary was entertained at the home of Mrs. Gray Gaut on Fourth street Monday evening. A short business meeting preceded the following program: Piano solo, Miss Lulu Buffie; song, Miss Emma Clutter; piano solo, Mrs. Elizabeth Hickey; song, Miss Myrtle Ryland. Chorus practice was held. During the social hour refreshments were served by Miss Isabelle Dorbritz, Mrs. Gaut and Mrs. Raymond Kent.

SAW MUCH ACTIVE SERVICE IN FRANCE

Private Robert Behrendt, of Co. I, 51st Infantry, of the American Expeditionary Forces, who left Charleroi on June 8, 1918, has written a letter to friends in Speers, from Combilier du Nuit, France, in which he says:

"Pardon me for not writing, but I have been continuously on the go and while at the front I saw service on three separate sectors. The first was Alsace-Lorraine, where we were in the front line trenches for 32 days, then we went back for two weeks rest and were then sent to the Argonne. The Germans couldn't whip us here and they tried to run us to death. We chased them for seven days as far back as Artois, about ten miles from Luxemburg, Germany. We were then sent to the Verdun sector, where we were located when the armistice was signed.

"When we were chasing the Boche I met a boy from Charleroi, Elmer Majors. He was in the same division with me, and we stopped together for the night, pitching tents in an open field. It was dark when I met him and the soldiers all had campfires burning and it looked like a big city. After we had talked for a long while he left for his tent and he had only been gone about 20 minutes when a call for "lights out" was made. By that time we heard the boche airplane over us and the bombs began to burst all around us. They also turned their machine guns on us. Four men were killed and several were wounded as a result of the attack.

"How bad is the 'flu' in the states? The people over here have been dying on every hand and it is a shame the way it has affected the soldiers. We have been having cold weather here all of the time."

MINISTERIAL ASSOCIATION MET IN MONONGAHELA

The Monongahela Valley Ministerial Association held a regular meeting in the First Baptist church, Monongahela, this morning. The sermon was preached by the Rev. Wilson Reed, of the United Presbyterian church of Monessen, and Rev. C. A. Keller, of the First Presbyterian church, of Charleroi, read a paper.

Deal Involved Over 2,400 Acres Of Coal

According to the Morning Herald of Uniontown, the sale of the Alicia mines Nos. 1 and 2, with 2,400 acres of coal land, together with a modernly equipped marine ways, three towboats and a fleet of fifty barges by Capt. W. Harry Brown, to the Pittsburgh Steel Company, was announcement to that effect was made then at the Brownsville office of the Brown interests. The consideration is placed at $4,000,000.

The deal represents one of the largest transfers of coal property in recent years and removes from the market one of the best brands of Connellsville coke. The entire output of the two plants will be used to supply the mills of the Pittsburgh Steel Company located at Allenport, Monessen and Glassport. Involved in the deal is Alicia No.1 mine, located at Brownsville, Fayette county, and Alicia No. 2, located at Gray's Landing on the Greene county side of the river. The marine ways at the Brownsville plant are built upon a historic race track where the late Sam Brown trained race horses at the time he was one of the country's greatest turf kings. The Ways were commenced in 1914, but were suspended during the war because of difficulty in getting materials and were only completed a short time ago.

The Alicia plant No. 1 was built in 1908 and is considered one of the best equipped in the Connellsville region. One of the features is a steel traveling bridge spanning two railroad tracks, which may be moved from one end of the plant to the other. It represents an investment of $200,000. It has a capacity of 125 cars daily.

One hundred and fifty houses at Alicia No. 1 and the administration buildng including the postoffice and store also pass into the hands of the new owners. The Alicia plant includes 400 rectangular ovens equipped with modern conveniences for leveling and conveying. The power plant has a capacity of 650 kilowatts and is equipped with two 500 horsepower Buckeye engines.

FORMER PASSENGER CONDUCTOR IS DEAD

George A. Young, aged 70 years, of West Brownsville, died Sunday morning at 9 o'clock, at the home of relatives in Wellsburg, W. Va., of paralysis. Mr. Young was one of the oldest retired passenger conductors on the Monongahela Division of the Pennsylvania Railroad, having worked on the division for 45 years. He was the first passenger conductor when the P. V. & C. Railroad was built, and followed its extension from the time it reached Monongahela until it was completed to Brownsville and on to Uniontown. He was retired from service five years ago. Mr Young was born in West Virginia, and for the past thirty years has lived in Brownsville. He was a member of the South Brownsville Methodist Episcopal church and the Order of Railroad Conductors. He is survived by his wife, Sara Young, and the following children: Mrs. A. B. Phillips of Monongahela; Mrs. Geo. Harden of Woodlawn; Mrs. John P. Marks of Pueblo, Col.; Harvey, of Driftwood, and George of Uniontown. The body was taken to Uniontown Monday evening.

I. Birken left Monday for a three weeks trip through New York, New Jersey, Rhode Island and Massachusetts. While in the east Mr. Birken will purchase his spring and fall goods.

FINDS MOTHER AND DAUGHTER BOTH DEAD

Arriving home Friday evening from Uniontown, where he had been attending court as a juror in criminal court, Martin C. Hess, justice of the Peace at Brownsville, found his wife, aged 32, dead on the floor of her bedroom, from the effects of poison, and his 8-year-old daughter Helen choked to death, lying on her mother's bed nearby. The authorities believe Mrs. Hess had taken the child's life and then her own. Finger prints where supposedly the mother had seized her daughter, could be seen on the little girl's neck. In Mrs. Hess's mouth were bits of clothing, evidently stuffed there after drinking the poison. Mr. Hess reached home shortly after 5 o'clock. Lights in the house were burning as he had left them in the morning. The front door was locked. The justice had left early in the morning for Uniontown, and before making the trip took his daughter from her bed and placed her in bed beside her mother. The only cause to be found for the tragedy was the recent illness of Mrs. Hess.

TWENTY-EIGHTH TO RETURN IN MAY

It is stated on what is believed to be the best of authority that the Twenty-eighth Division will not sail from France until some time in May. If this schedule is adhered to, the Division should arrive at some Atlantic port early in June, with a possibility of the men being discharged not later than July. The Twenty-eighth Division (then the National Guard of Pennsylvania) was called into service on the 15th of July, 1917, and left for France late in April, 1918.

SUCCESSFUL CLOSE OF REVIVAL MEETINGS

Three long-to-be-remembered services were held in the Washington Avenue Presbyterian church on Sunday. The services were the closing of a revival which has been in progress for two weeks, conducted by the pastor, the Rev. John R. Burson. At the morning service every seat in the main auditorium and the gallery was occupied, and there were eight professions.

The Young People's service at 3 o'clock was one of the best ever held in the church. The responsive part of the service was enjoyed by the large number of parents and teachers present, while the singing was an inspiration. Twenty young people professed faith at that service. A beautiful coincidence was observed when just at the critical time of decision among the young people, the sun shone very brightly for some three minutes, and the hues through the colored glass windows made a hush over the assembly.

At the evening service the house was crowded and chairs were used in the aisles. The music was the best of the whole series of meetings. There were five professions in the evening. Taken as a whole the services were considered by many as the best in years. Many regrets were heard when the meetings came to a close last evening. Communion was announced for March 30th.

TO COMPLETE COKE PLANT AT FAIRMONT

Word has been received from Fairmont that the United States Government has directed the completion of the by-product plant, which is located on the fair grounds at that place. It is understood that the plant in Fairmont and one in another city are the only two by-product plants that the government has decided to complete. Work on the Farmont plant was in progress when the armistice was signed, but since building operations had been at a standstill. The plant will have 60 ovens, which are being constructed by the Koppers Construction Company.

A MEASURE TO QUELL STRIKES

Governor Sproul is given authority to appoint any unmber of volunteer police officers for service during labor disturbances and other outbreaks in a bill offered in the Senate Monday night by Mr. Eyre of Chester. It is an admmistration measure and it is designed to give added importance to the new council of public welfare, of which former Lieutenant Governor Frank B. McClain is now acting head.

It is provided the Governor may appoint as many such officers as he may "deem necessary," during riots or tumult, or for the preservation of the peace or public or private property and they shall be under the direction and control of the local police department or commission, and where no such authority exists they shall take orders from officials to be designated by the Governor.

Under section three of the bill they are given all the authority to make arrests, on view, with or without warrants, now enjoyed by regularly appointed police officers. They may not only exercise this authority in the counties in which they were appointed, but in whatever county they may be assigned to duty during times of riot or disorder.

This bill, it is realized, will continue the Home Defense Police indefinitely, giving them all the powers held by other police officers, but they shall serve without pay, except that their expenses shall be paid by the State, except where they are assigned to the protection of the property of utility or other corporations in a particular county, in which case their expenses shall be borne by the county in which the disorder occurs.

THE WORK MUST GO ON

No greater calamity could befall America right now than to have the bottom fall out of business and industry. To have the returning thousands of American soldiers arrive to find an idle, jobless country awaiting them.

You do not want a condition like that. Neither do I. Neither does the man down street, the butcher, the baker nor the candlestick maker.

All of us would suffer were that to happen. Not one of us could hope to escape the effects more than the other.

The work must go on. Industry must hum. Business continue active.

And you and I, every mother's son of us, must get right down to brass tacks and finance the peace that has come just as we financed the war that is gone.

Uncle Sam will look after the inside work of the job if we will but supply him the funds. He knows just what is needed and where. Just what he owes and who needs payment the worst. Just where the money will do the most good.

He has overhang contracts to straighten out, soldiers' insurance claims to pay, soldiers' pay days to meet, solders' maintenance bills to satisfy, training camp and hospital bills to settle; a ship building program to complete, a farmers' wheat guarantee to make good, assistance to provide for the suffering weaker brother nations overseas. An endless variety of demands upon his purse.

And nearly every one of them will make for better times at home, for greater industry, for more lively commercial conditions, for an easing up of the financial situation.

These things we must have if we are to have prosperity.

Nor can we reap unless we sow. We cannot sit idly by and let the problem work itself out. We must come to Uncle Sam's rescue before he can come to our's.

He is asking no more of us than he has asked before. Than we have given. Than we can do again. And must.

We simply must make this Victory Liberty Loan a success.

Unless we do success will not be for us, indivdually.

So begin putting aside for loan day.

A TELEPHONE DEFICIT ALSO

For years the American Telephone company, ably managed, wisely financed and intelligently mindful of the people's interest, performed admirably a work of prime national importance. It was not an infrequent thing, it became habitual, for telephone rates to be lowered. Yet all the while the service constantly improved. And the company was a steady and prolific earner for its stockholders.

The government took over the telephones as it took over the operation of the railroads. Then, exactly as had happened in the case of the railroads, the old Nick got into the wires. More of the earnings were eaten up, but there was nothing to show for it. Important tolls were increased, but the service grew worse. In the first five months of Government operation there was a deficit of close to $4,000,000 for a company hitherto accustomed to handing out fat surpluses

And now a general increase of rates amounting to 12 per cent will be necessary to wipe out the deficit and provide a thin surplus—a surplus perhaps; then again, perhaps not. For, as Government operation can wipe out any surplus that exists in anything. Government operation, when there is no surplus is an insurmountable barrier against the creation of one. A surplus, indeed, however high the charges to the public are backed up, seems as abhorrent to Government operation as good service.—New York Sun.

Mexico Can Claim Dahlia.

The dahlia is a Mexican—that is, it is of Mexican descent. It is said that it was taken from Mexico to Europe not to be admired as a flower, but to be served on the table as food. According to historians of the dahlia, there are nine varieties of the flower indigenous to the high sandy plains of Mexico. In the matter of the dahlia as a food the story runs that the present blossoms have been developed from Mexican tubers introduced into Europe for the purpose of supplanting, or at least of supplementing, the potato, which not so very long before had been introduced into Europe from South America—some say from Peru, and others claim the honor for different parts of our western continent.

No Place for the Nagger.

Some people were never made to boss other folks. They aren't big enough to give others a chance. Neither can they permit other people to have opinions of their own. Yet they want to do the urging and the pushing. We find no fault with that, but the pinch comes when they make their lack of ability the club that drives others. So we advise setting your own pace and letting others jog along as fast as they can. A little judicious urging will help to stimulate rivalry, but beware of the nagger. Permit yourself to get the habit and you will be relegated to the abodes of the disagreeable before you know where you are at. And in this age there is no place for such unfortunates.—Grit.

Dinner Gong From Bulgaria.

The klepalo, used in lieu of a dinner horn in some parts of the United States, came from Bulgaria originally. It is a piece of well-seasoned oak plank two inches thick, six inches wide and four feet long. By a rope passed through a hole bored in the center the plank is suspended from a limb of a tree. When the wood is struck with a mallet, first on one side and then on the other, the noise produced carries farther than the ringing of a large church bell. The sound can, under favorable conditions, it is said, be heard distinctly two miles away. Formerly a call on the klepalo brought Bulgarians to prayer, and usually led them to turn their footsteps homeward.

BOY "DROPPED INTO MONEY"

New York Youngster Found Floors of Deserted House Fairly Strewn With Bank Notes.

A coal chute may be a prosaic substitute for Aladdin's lamp, but one found by a New York boy delivered the goods as satisfactorily as ever did the old original burner of "Arabian Nights" fame, observes the Kansas City Star. Vincent Mastaglio had been dazzling his playmates with great rolls of $10 bank notes and pockets full of jewelry for several days when the police learned of his suddenly acquired riches and took him into juvenile court, where he told of discovering his treasure trove.

He was playing in a New York East side street the other day when he fell through a coal hole. There wasn't much in the cellar to excite his interest, so he tried the upper floors of the house, which he found to be deserted. There, he told the police, he found rooms with their floors strewn with money; $5 and $10 bills had been wadded and thrown in every corner, and jewelry littered the dressing tables.

Investigation by the police verified the boy's statement. They learned that the house had been occupied by Mrs. James Sindhart, a recluse nine years old, who had died a few days before. The boy was the first person to enter the house after the woman had been removed to a hospital, and the money, thought to be rents from her tenants, had lain where she had thrown it on the floor as she received it.

Monarch's Compliment.

A pretty compliment was that Philip IV of Spain, himself a painter, tendered to a greater artist, Velasquez. When Velasquez had finished his famous picture "Las Meninas," which includes not only Philip and his queen but the artist himself, brush in hand, he asked of the king, "Is anything wanting?" "One thing only," answered Philip; and taking the palette from Velasquez's hands, he painted on the breast of the artist's figure in the picture the Cross of the Order of Santiago, the most distinguished in Spain.

ENGINEER PAROLED ON PAYMENT OF FINE

Alfred Thomas, hoisting engineer at the Marianna mines of the Union Coad and Coke company, entered a plea of guilty on Monday in the Washington county courts to charges of violating the mining laws. While under the influence of liquor he ran the cage up against the bull wheel at the top of the shaft, wrecking it. It seems from the facts given the court, which facts were set forth by the counsel for the prosecution, Thomas made a slip-up, after being off liquor for two or three years.

The mine inspector who made the prosecution did not ask for a severe sentence, but simply wished the defendant to understand he had done wrong. The sentence of the court was that he pay the costs of the prosecution, fine of $20 and undergo imprisonment in the county jail for three months, conditioned, however, that if he paid the fine and costs he would be released on parole.

PROMINENT LIVE STOCK DEALER GIVES OUT FACTS

"My business is buying and selling horses, cattle and other livestock and I have to be driving around the country in all sorts of weather" says George W. Eardman, of Millersburg, Pa., one of the largest live stock commission dealers in this state.

"As a result I contracted rheumatism, and it had been banging away at me for a good long time. Nothing fancy about it, just the plain, old-fashioned kind of rheumatism that tells you when there's a change coming in the weather by making you ache all over. That's the kind that had me.

"I took a crack at all sorts of remedies that I heard about from time to time, but nary one of them could scare old man Rheumatiz.

"But I put one over on him when I started taking Tanlac. I had him on the run before he knew what was coming. Tanlac sure did chase away the aches and pains. It's great stuff that Tanlac, and I'd advise every rheumatic to take it and shake his misery."

The genuine Tanlac gearing name J. I. Gore Co. is sold by Frank J. John and Piper's Pharmacy.

RUDDY LOCKS AND COURAG

Observation of English Writer Is That the Two Are Generally Found Together.

"Ginger for pluck" is an old saying which would seem to be confirmed in the bestowal of military decorations for bravery, observes London Answers. "It was in the ruined square of demolished Ypres last Christmas eve," writes a British officer, "that I was first impressed by the large number of red-haired men who were receiving the military medal.

"Since that afternoon I have noted the complexion of every officer and man wearing a military decoration, and the impression made at Ypres has been strengthened in consequence. There must be something in the old saying, for wherever soldiers are gathered together there is a red-haired, beribboned man in the midst of them.

"Take our most famous fighting division—the Invincible Fifty-first. This is composed almost entirely of Highland troops, and the Highlanders are nearly all full-blooded blonds. Of course there are dark-haired heroes in plenty, but nevertheless red hair and pluck would seem to be synonymous Red hair is common among our most daring airmen, and although I cannot say how many holders of the Victoria cross sport ruddy locks I am prepared to wager that they form a large percentage.

"Scientists say that red hair is caused by a large proportion of iron in the system, and certainly 'carrots and freckles' have been worn by men of iron while doing the work of men in the devil's own war."

FROM COFFIN TO KITCHEN

Plate Placed on Casket That Held Body of Louis XIV Found Doing Duty as Frying Pan.

At the Cluny museum in Paris is a very interesting relic.

One day a few years ago the curator of the museum happened to visit a small restaurant in the suburbs of Saint Denis, in which the same room served as a dining room and kitchen. While he was waiting to be served the curator was attracted by a frying pan of unusual appearance that hung upon the wall. He took it down, carefully removed some of the soot with which it was covered, and made out part of an inscription. What he found interested him so much that he bought the old pan.

When it was cleaned it was found to bear the arms of France and Navarre, surrounded by the chain of St Louis and the cord of the Order of Saint Esprit, and this inscription as well. "Here lies the magnificent Prince, King Louis XIV, King of France and Navarre. Requiescat in pace."

It was the plate that had been fastened to the coffin of Louis XIV. When the burial vaults of the royal family in the cathedral at Saint Denis were rifled by the populace in 1793 it had been wrenched from the coffin, fitted with a handle, and turned into a frying pan. The handle has been removed.

The Warning.

He was nineteen years old and she was just sixteen. For a long time they had been saving their money to get married. When they together had acquired $100 they decided that they had reached the opportune time. So into Sullivan and to the courthouse for the needed license they hied.

As they ascended the steps of that building they met a motley crew coming down the stairway—a discontented-looking husband, a still more discontented-looking wife and five dilapidated, dirty children. The boy stopped, turned to stare at the girl and found that she was staring at him. Suddenly she laughed and tucking her hand into his arm turned him around so that his back was toward the entrance of the building. "Let's go back home, Fred, and wait until we've saved another hundred dollars," she advised.—Indianapolis News.

Piecing Out Wool Supply.

All the wool grown in the world every year, if made only into clothing for people living outside the tropics, and not into horse blankets, carpets, etc., would provide fourteen ounces per person. That is enough to make one lightweight pair of bathing trunks extending from the waist to the knees "Then, uncle," asked Rollo, "where does the rest of the wool we wear come from? Our coats and overcoats and blankets and woolen stockings?" "That," replied his uncle, "is reworked wool, or shoddy." "But surely, uncle," exclaimed the boy, "we do not wear shoddy, do we?" "No," said the honest uncle, "you and I do not, but everybody else does."—The Little Journal.

Paying War Debts.

There is no uniform rule of action regarding the payment of war debts. Some war debts have been entirely paid off, and others have been greatly reduced In 1793, following the Revolutionary war, the public debt of the United States was $80,352,634. It was reduced year by year until 1812, when it was $45,209,737. During the war of 1812, it increased until 1816, when it was $127,334,933. Then followed a long period of steady yearly reduction till in 1835 it stood at the nominal figure of $37,512, with much more than that balance in the treasury. Circumstances brought a long period of growth in the public debt till 1888, following the Civil war, it was $2,773,236,173.

TAKE THREE DAYS TO WED

Armenian Couple Must Be Patient in the Matter of Tying the Marriage Knot.

In Armenia everybody has a good time at a wedding except the bridegroom. First of all, the friends assemble, and an entertainment, with dancing, takes place. The bridegroom is expected to arrive when the entertainment is at its height and it is considered good form for him to appear with his face covered with powder to simulate pallor induced by the solemnity of the occasion. Friends of the bridegroom then shave him publicly and fall upon him and strip him of all his clothes, after which he is supplied with a new set of garments and completely dressed again. While they are performing the offices of valet to the groom the young men present are supposed to hold lighted candles in their right hands.

The day after this opening marriage feast the bride rides to church, and the bridegroom walks. The priest who receives them in the porch reads a short sermon on their duties in the matrimonial state and then the wedding party proceeds to the altar, where the foreheads of the high contracting parties are bound together with gold chains. The wedding festivities continue for at least three days after this, and the couple are not regarded as married until the ceremonies have been concluded. The social celebration of the wedding is carried through as conscientiously as the religious part.

COULD NOT DISLODGE ROCK

When Nature Placed Freak on Berkshire Hills, She Evidently Put It There to Stay.

The famous "balanced rock" near Lanesboro, Mass., in the historic Berkshires, is one of the strange sights of this region of hidden mountain caves, snow-capped hills and folk-lore that rivals fiction. This rock, which weighs several tons, is apparently in a precarious position on the sheer edge of another rocky formation beneath it. One would think that a very slight push indeed would dislodge it from its position.

"Balanced rock" is located on Constitution hill, the eminence named after "Constitution" Smith, who was instrumental in ratifying the American Constitution. An old farmer of Lanesboro thought he could pull "balanced rock" from its position by harnessing up several pairs of oxen, attaching a chain to the rock and having the animals strain on the rock together. The experiment failed. The rock could be rocked back and forth, but could not be dislodged.

The ice flow of the glacial period is believed to have been responsible for placing the huge rock in its present position.

Alcohol From Molasses.

Several large concerns are making alcohol from cheap molasses brought from the West Indies. This molasses, which is uneatable, is known as "black strap." The internal revenue chemists have been able, however, to ferment it and to obtain not only alcohol but, to so use the residue that they get glycerin.

Four lots of "black strap" of 1,000 gallons each subjected to the new process turned out a very excellent quality of glycerin. There are 100 gallons of this clear dynamite glycerin, as it is called, now on exhibition in the treasury department. Samples of it treated with nitric acid by a well-known firm of explosive makers, at the request of the government, produced as good a nitro-glycerin as the market affords.

Nitro-glycerin when incorporated with pulp or other inert substance becomes dynamite. Thus out of the simple sweets of the sugar bowl comes forth the strength which will rend the rock.

Large Market for Rabbit Skins.

There is a market for rabbit skins. Before the recent war an enormous trade was carried on abroad. It is said that Great Britain and Ireland alone produced about thirty million skins annually. Most rabbit skins are sold in bales, by weight, the fur from them being used for felting purposes, and the skins for making glue. The war interrupted the importations from Europe and Australia to such an extent that the price has greatly increased. The better skins are sold by the dozen. When dressed they become the "cony" of the fur trade, often sold under fanciful names. American breeders are raising all kinds of rabbits that produce the best "cony" of the fur shops.

Saw Cuts Steel Billets.

The largest of a number of power hacksaws in one of the British naval factories is stated to weigh three and one-half tons and is driven by a three-horse power electric motor. It cuts through square billets of steel 26 inches thick. Even a cut like this does not wear out the blade, which is suitable for further work after the cut has been made. This machine is estimated to reduce the expense of sawing to one-sixth of the former cost.

Japan's Leading Industry.

Extraordinarily favorable business conditions in Japan and the continued withdrawal of the products of European nations from competition in the markets of Asia and Australia made the year 1917 an extremely profitable one for the spinning industry and firmly fixed it as the leading manufacturing industry of Japan.

LAUNDRY MOVED WITH THEM

Washing Apparatus on Wheels a Comfort to the Doughboys at the Front in France.

A correspondent with the American army in France, while motoring near Verdun, met a sergeant who asked if he might ride with him to a pile of ruins that had once been a town. The chance meeting threw light on how a "doughboy" laundry operates. After the sergeant had entered the car he asked the occupants:

"You chaps ain't seen my laundry anywhere, have you?"

"Laundry? We didn't know there was a laundry in this part of France."

"Well, there is, and it belongs to us. At least it did yesterday. We've been transferred from the division to the corps. When I got back from headquarters the division had moved and the laundry was gone. I think they stole it. We used to be attached to a hospital; when they moved we hitched our laundry to a truck and went along."

"Your laundry is on wheels, then?"

"Yes sir. It needs wheels, the way this division is moving. Our laundry is a couple of big tanks on a wagon with a steam-heating apparatus. First we soak the duds in suds; then we steam them; next we bake them. In an hour everything is washed, rinsed and dried. When a bunch comes out of the trenches we give 'em new clothes and run the old ones through the washing machine; then we bake 'em and issue 'em out to the next gang, and keep things going. Fifteen hundred outfits a day—that's our average. Three weeks to launder the whole division."

As they neared the ruined village he caught sight of the portable laundry, and with a "Thank you" he hurried off to take possession.—Youth's Companion.

TRUE TO TRADITIONS OF SEA

Bluejackets Would Accept No Reward for Their Part in Aiding Injured in Wreck.

Several Indianapolis men were passengers on the New York Central train wrecked near Batavia, N. Y. One of them, in describing the wreck, told the following story:

"When I got into some clothes and got out to see what the trouble was I was surprised to see dozens of sailors as busy as bees helping care for the wounded and making people as comfortable as possible. It developed that our train was carrying two day coaches filled with bluejackets, and a few seconds after the crash came they were out of the cars and making themselves generally useful.

"Some time later representatives of the railroad company came through the crowd settling with the passengers for slight damages. Some asked $50, others $100, and checks for the amount asked were forthcoming. One big man said that $100 would about square things with him, but added that the check should be made out to "those sailors out there." Accordingly the check was drawn in favor of the men who had been working like Trojans ever since the crash. But—

"The sailors refused to accept the money.

"The check was then turned over to the Red Cross to be used in naval relief work."

Uncle Sam Returns Glasses.

As several correspondents have already revealed by means of appreciative letters, the field glasses which the government was forced to "borrow" for the use of its sailors when it went into the war are beginning to come back to their original owners—and to come back almost infinitely increased in value by the marks of hard handling which most of them bear.

For thus these once prosaic utensils have been made into precious relics and souvenirs. Every mark and mar and stain on them is proof that they have helped to win the great victory, and to have one of these war-worn treasures is also evidence that its possessor made a willing sacrifice, small but real, when a need of his country was brought to his attention.—New York Times.

Feeding the Doughboys.

Food stores for the army on hand in the United States, its possessions, France, and in transit to France on Jan. 1, 1919, were valued at $300,000,000. At the time of the signing of the armistice approximately 10,000,000 pounds of food were being consumed by our troops in France each day, and there were on hand in France at that time 1,000,000,000 pounds of food in reserve. All this food has been transported on an average of 5,000 miles. It is estimated by the subsistence division that 3,000,000,000 meals were served to the army during the nineteen months of warfare with Germany.

Average Life Nearly Doubled.

From 1348 to 1350, 25,000,000 deaths from the plague or "black death," occurred, which was one-fourth of the entire population of the world at that time. In 1761, 50 per cent of the English nation died before reaching the age of 20 years.

The average length of life in the sixteenth century was only 21 years while in this, the twentieth century, the average life is 45 years. In India, however, the average life today is only 24 years.

We are enabled to see what the science of medicine is accomplishing in our more civilized countries, where ignorance and superstition do not prevail to any very great extent.

FACTS OF MOST IMPORTANCE

Those Which Tell Best About Past and Future States of Object, Asserts Ruskin.

It ought further to be observed respecting truths in general, that those are always most valuable which are most historical, that is, which tell us most about the past and future states of the object to which they belong. In a tree, for instance, it is more important to give the appearance of energy and elasticity in the limbs which is indicative of growth and life, than any particular character of leaf or texture of bough. It is more important that we should feel that the uppermost sprays are creeping higher and higher into the sky, and be impressed with the current of life and motion which is animating every fibre than that we should know the exact pitch of relief with which those fibres are thrown out against the sky. For the first truths tell us tales about the tree, about what it has been, and will be, while the last are characteristic of it only in its present state, and are in no way talkative about themselves. Talkative facts are always more interesting and more important than silent ones. So, again, the lines in a crag which mark its stratification, and how it has been washed and rounded by water, or twisted and drawn out in fire, are more important, because they tell more than the stains of the lichens, which change year by year, and the accidental fissures of frost or decomposition; not but that both of these are historical, but historical in a less distinct manner, and for shorter periods.—Ruskin.

GAVE TITLE TO RED CROSS

Indianapolis Man Found Pleasure in Putting His Contribution on a Business Basis.

He was a little old man, clad in the garb of a workingman. He stood back from the canteen information booth at the Union station and waited until the Red Cross women had checked the baggage of a group of men just back from overseas. Then he eased up to the desk and thrusting his arm quickly forward, laid a $20 bill in the hand of one of the attendants.

"Take $16.90 out of that," the old man said in a whisper.

"What for?" the canteener asked.

"It's my tithe," he answered. "Take $16.90 out of it. I must be going."

"May I ask you who you are and why you give your money in this way?"

"It doesn't matter who I am. I am just me. The money I'm giving is my tithe to the Red Cross and it makes me happy to give it. It really is $16.93, but you won't want to bother with pennies."

The canteener gave him his change and placed the money in the donation box under the counter. He disappeared in the crowd in the Union station. A few minutes later another canteener arrived. She was told of the incident.

"Yes, he comes regularly each month and leaves his tithe," she said, "but he won't tell who he is. He seems to enjoy giving to the Red Cross in this quiet way and always wears a smile of satisfaction after he has done it. He seems so happy when he turns to walk away."—Indianapolis News.

Enormous Sea-Going Raft.

While log rafts are by no means new, the huge raft recently constructed at Haparanda, Sweden, and used to ship a large number of logs to Copenhagen, Denmark, is worthy of passing mention.

The great raft measures 387 feet long, 55½ feet wide, 10 feet above the waterline and 16½ feet below.

The raft took six months to build and contains as much wood as four big steamers. It is held together by an ingenious system of steel cables and wires, and is capable of carrying a large amount of material. The crew consists of seven men.
